

Welcome

Travel has been my life for over 20 years. St Augustine's famous quote remains as true to me today as it was when I first set up 2by2 Holidays – "the world is a book and those who do not travel, read only one page".

My first love was Africa, the place of my birth. Its remarkable wildlife and cultures continue to captivate me today.

A recent visit to the wildlife of the Serengeti has starkly reminded me just how fragile the survival of so many endangered species remains and reinforced my belief that travel must always have conservation at its heart.

In recent years I have discovered the joys of travel in the Indian subcontinent and Latin America. The iconic sites and cultures there are no less enthralling and everywhere wildlife adapts and survives, from harsh barren deserts to cool mountain cloud forests and tropical wetlands.

My enthusiasm burns as brightly as ever and I continue to be as involved in every aspect of the business as I always have been, backed up by our superb travel team. I'm particularly thrilled that so many of our customers return time after time.

I do hope you find our latest brochure inspiring and we all look forward to hearing from you.

Ringtail lemur

Madagascar

Most famous for its iconic lemurs, this fourth largest island in the world is truly unique and remains largely undeveloped. It is a magical spice island of pristine rainforests, huge baobab trees and tropical palm-fringed beaches.

Madagascar separated from the African continent over 135 million years ago and has hundreds of species of flora and fauna that are simply not found anywhere else on earth. Its diverse habitats are home to over 100 different lemurs, numerous colourful chameleons, frogs, reptiles and insects, and it has the highest percentage of endemic birdlife in the world.

Wildlife viewing here is a truly magical experience but, unlike a traditional safari where you are confined to a vehicle, in Madagascar it's all about walking. Different parks offer varying levels of physical challenge and you should be relatively mobile to get the most from the experience. Our knowledgeable English-speaking guides are some of the very best and their love of wildlife plays a big part.

The capital city of Antananarivo (Tana) is the gateway to the country and the first overnight stop for most travellers. It has a choice of comfortable places to stay. Lodges in the more remote areas of the country tend to be more basic although they are clean and have hot water. If your creature comforts are important to you, consider one of the upmarket boutique properties that are found along the coast.

Ile aux Nattes

Forty minutes northeast of Tana you will find the fortified royal settlement (or 'rova') at the Royal Hill of Ambohimanga. Meaning 'Blue Hill', this complex of royal buildings and palaces is situated on the highest and most sacred of the twelve royal hills surrounding Tana and is a World Heritage Site. It is the best-preserved remains of the pre-colonial Merina Kingdom and an important source of Malagasy identity. The walled historic village includes the tombs of several kings and queens.

When planning a wildlife trip to Madagascar, be aware that each lemur species has a very specific habitat, so it is necessary to visit many different parks if you wish to see a variety of different species.

Madagascar's most accessible national parks are Analamazaotra (formerly known as the Perinet Reserve) and Mantadia, both near Andasibe, reached by a four-hour journey along the RN2, a relatively well-maintained road from Tana. These adjacent reserves are part of the protected Eastern Rainforest belt and are home to 11 lemur species. Perinet's secondary forest protects the world's largest lemur, the Indri, which stands about a metre high and is famous for its eerie wailing call that warns other troops to keep their distance. The park also protects the Grey bamboo lemur and the nocturnal Eastern woolly lemur, as well as many birds and other fascinating smaller creatures such as the chameleon and leaf-tailed gecko.

Located about 12 miles to the north of Andasibe, the virtually untouched primary forest of Mantadia is more rugged and here you may spot Diadem sifaka, Black-and-white ruffed lemur and many rarely seen birds and reptiles. Expect to do a lot of walking in these luxuriant rainforests and take your rain gear, as it does get wet.

A popular way to explore several of Madagascar's major national parks and towns is overland along the RN7 road with a private driver and guide, beginning in Tana and travelling south to Tulear (Toliara) and Anakao on the southwest coast. This trip typically covers about 500 miles and takes two weeks. It includes the lemur-rich Ranomafana National Park, a refuge for Golden bamboo lemur, Milne-Edwards' sifaka and Red bellied lemur. It also takes in the spectacular sandstone rock formations and rare plants of Isalo National Park, the Andringitra massif and the old city of Fianarantsoa.

Madagascar is a vast country (over 1,000 miles long) but apart from the RN7 and RN2, most roads are poorly maintained. As travelling between reserves can be challenging, domestic flights are the best way to cover longer distances. Flights can be prone to time changes, so a well-planned itinerary and a relaxed attitude to the occasional unforeseen hiccup along the way are essential.

Located in the northeast of Madagascar and reached by plane from the capital or from the east coast town of Toamasina (Tamatave), Ile Sainte Marie (Nosy Boraha) is one of Madagascar's less visited island gems. White sandy beaches backed by coconut palms, coral reefs, remnants of primary forest and multitudes of orchids make this long narrow island a tropical paradise. Ile Sainte Marie even has a pirates' graveyard at Baie de Forbans that bears witness to a fascinating period in its history.

Madagascar’s national lemur, and probably its most well-known, is the gregarious Ringtail. It is mainly found in the south of the country, including at Berenty.

On Sainte Marie island you can snorkel, dive (qualified PADI instructors offer tuition for all levels of experience, including shipwrecks and night dives) and visit Ile aux Nattes, where you can explore the island by bike. During the whale-watching season between June and September, guests can participate in the whale research that is based at the hotel.

Also on Madagascar’s northeast coast, the Masoala Peninsula has one of the largest and most diverse areas of primary forest in the country. Here land has been set aside to form a national park, although the struggle against illegal logging and land clearance is ongoing. The national park is home to the attractive Red ruffed lemur as well as many rare endemic birds such as the Bernier’s vanga.

The Berenty Reserve, located in the far south of Madagascar, is a visitor favourite with its habituated lemurs and easy forest pathways, but accommodation is fairly simple. Most famous are its troops of Ringtail lemur and the ‘dancing’ creamy white Verreaux’s sifaka, with its chocolate brown cap. Nocturnal sightings may include White-footed sportive lemur and Grey mouse lemur. Bird watching is particularly rewarding here with almost 100 recorded species.

If budget allows there is a more upmarket, fly-in option to Mandrare River. To the east and reached by road from Fort Dauphin, Manafiafy Beach is set on a perfect crescent bay fringed with palm trees. By combining these two areas you’ll enjoy exceptional wildlife viewing in both dry spiny forest and lush rainforest, have access to local cultures and spend time relaxing on a gorgeous sandy beach. The snorkelling is good here and the whale watching between June and September is brilliant.

In the far north of Madagascar, the national park of Montagne d’Ambre is a botanist’s delight, where the huge variety of trees, reptiles and insects steal the show. Reached via the town of Antsiranana (Diego Suarez) the volcanic massif of Montagne d’Ambre, with its pristine montane rainforest, is home to two northern lemur species, Sanford’s brown lemur and the Crowned lemur. Visitors may also spot the Ring-tailed mongoose, large chameleon and many bird species. The wide trails make this park especially accessible.

While Madagascar’s unique flora and fauna is undoubtedly its main draw, it also offers a range of stunning Indian Ocean beaches.

Nearby, the landscape of eroded limestone spikes (tsingys), canyons, caves and sunken forests of Ankarana National Park should not be missed if you have the time to explore further afield. The striking razor sharp tsingys rise up to over 70 metres from the ground. Hiking trails are driest from April through to November and you may spot the Crowned lemur and the Northern sportive lemur as well as the Brown mouse lemur and nearly a third of all the country’s bird species.

The western side of Madagascar is drier than the east and the tropical forests here are home to a high number of endemic plants and wildlife. Kirindy Mitea National Park is the place to see Madagascar’s largest predator, the elusive fossa and the world’s smallest primate, Madame Berthe’s mouse lemur. Over seven different baobab trees are found in Madagascar and the Avenue of the Baobabs, near the coastal town of Morondava, is spectacular especially at sunset. Also in the west, there are dramatic tsingys at Behamara, a World Heritage Site, where limestone pinnacles rise up to over 100 metres. An ingenious system of pathways, steps, ladders and bridges help you to explore this remarkable natural phenomenon.

Madagascar’s coastline is fringed with tiny islands, white sandy beaches and coral reefs. Many of the most popular beaches are found in the northwest, around the island of Nosy Be, but the area is relatively developed and gets busy in July and August.

The secluded Anjajavy peninsula in the northwest offers a delightful eco-luxury option, having its own dry forest reserve. It is one of the best places to see the ‘dancing’ Coquerel’s sifaka.

Lying between Nosy Be and the mainland, Nosy Komba’s quiet sandy coves are also delightful.

Forty miles to the north of Nosy Be, Tsarabanjina is an idyllic private island fringed with white sandy beaches and encircled by coral reefs. It’s an oasis of luxury where you can dive, snorkel or simply relax and enjoy the view from your hammock.

When to go

Madagascar has a hot tropical climate with different weather patterns in each of the key regions. The best time to visit the eastern rainforests is during their dry season from August to November, when the lemurs give birth to their young - but take rain gear all year round and avoid the cyclone season from January to March. Rainfall is spread more evenly throughout the year in the northwest around Anjajavy & Nosy Be. The south, central and west regions can be visited all year, but are best from mid April to November, when there is little rain and temperatures are not as hot. Whale watching is best from June to September. Birding is best from September to November, which is the breeding season. Botanists find mid-November to December very rewarding. April is best for reptiles.

Special Interest Holidays

Travel offers a wonderful opportunity to do and see things that you have previously only dreamed of. We can introduce you to a wonderland of new experiences and if you have a particular passion or interest, we are the people to talk to. Known for our wildlife and cultural holidays, we also have expertise in many other specialisms. Unlike most travel companies, we take the time to research and book even the most unusual requests. Here we highlight some of the special interest holidays that other customers have loved.

Walking

If you enjoy hiking, we offer a thrilling range of walking safaris – ranging from a few hours in the early morning or late afternoon, accompanied by an armed ranger, to specialised walking camps in Botswana and South Africa where all game viewing is on foot. We also offer point-to-point trails in Zambia, where you can spend a week walking from one remote bush camp to another – a truly unforgettable experience!

You can trek to see mountain gorillas, and in most of our destinations we can incorporate a variety of walking and hiking trails into your itinerary, ranging from day hikes to waterfalls and volcanoes in Costa Rica, to Peru's iconic Inca Trail and Nepal's stunning Annapurna Trek.

If you are sufficiently fit, you can even combine a safari in East Africa with climbing Mount Kilimanjaro, accompanied by experienced mountain guides.

Birding

Many of our customers are avid birders who want to spot regional endemics, as well as increase their life list, whilst others are more casual birders who simply enjoy the pleasure of identifying known species and spotting new ones. Whichever category you fit into, we know how important it is to design an itinerary that visits the best birding regions, at the right time of year.

With our extensive network of specialist birding guides, we can tailor make private tours to key destinations such as Costa Rica, Colombia, Mexico, Chile, Argentina, Peru, Ecuador and Galapagos, Brazil, Guyana, Madagascar, South Africa, Botswana, Kenya, Tanzania, India, Bhutan and Sri Lanka. We can also help you track down iconic species, such as the Harpy eagle in Panama.

We offer cheaper lodge-based birding holidays too, using guides employed by the various lodges – although the quality of guiding can vary – and a few scheduled departure tours in high demand countries such as Costa Rica.

Sports & Cultural Events

As we tailor make all our holidays, we cater to a wide range of special interests.

Golf

Our golf holidays in South Africa are particularly popular, allowing golfers to escape the northern winter and combine championship golf with wine tasting and a luxury safari or beach break. You can select the courses you wish to play, varying from social to world class.

Riding

Our riding holidays vary from thrilling mobile horseback safaris in Big Five territory for experienced riders, to family-friendly lodge-based riding holidays suitable for all levels.

Diving

The Indian Ocean offers outstanding diving in warm water, from Kenya all the way down to Zanzibar, Mozambique and South Africa, as well as the islands of the Maldives, Andamans, Mauritius, Seychelles and Madagascar. Galapagos offers live-aboard dive ships, whilst Mexico and Belize offer superb Caribbean diving.

Fishing

These same regions offer some of the best deep-sea fishing in the world. To this must be added the renowned fishing waters of the Baja Peninsula in Mexico.

Sports Events

Sports events are often the catalyst for a special holiday. We can source tickets to rugby internationals in South Africa and Argentina, as well as cricket tests in India, Sri Lanka and South Africa. We can also arrange Grand Prix packages.

Cultural Events

We can also build a holiday around special events such as the Rio Carnival, Holi in India or the Day of the Dead celebrations in Mexico

Cruises & Houseboats

Expedition cruises explore regions that are difficult to reach in other ways, whilst relaxing houseboats provide a different perspective from the water.

Expedition Cruises

Expedition cruises to the Galapagos Islands in Ecuador are the best way to explore the unique wildlife of this stunning archipelago. Itineraries vary in length from several days to a week or more, with a wide choice of boats varying in size, design and cost.

Patagonia expedition cruises sail from southern Argentina to Chile, and vice versa, navigating via Glacier Alley and Cape Horn.

Expedition cruises to the Falkland Islands and Antarctica use much larger vessels capable of handling the polar ice.

You need to be relatively mobile to enjoy an expedition cruise, as you will disembark twice a day for excursions, making your way down a gangplank into a zodiac-type inflatable.

Houseboats

Houseboats are a relaxing way to watch the world go by. They are the perfect way to explore the mighty Amazon River, the largest in South America, whether boarding from Manaus in Brazil, Coca in Ecuador or Iquitos in Peru.

You can also explore Brazil's southern Pantanal by houseboat or sail down the Magdalena River in Colombia.

India has houseboats that sail down the Brahmaputra and Ganges Rivers and are wonderful for observing local life. You can also spend a night on a traditional rice houseboat gliding through the Kerala backwaters.

In Africa, Botswana has houseboats on the Chobe River, superb for both wildlife viewing and tiger fishing, whilst Zimbabwe has houseboats on Lake Kariba. Lake Jozini in South Africa also offers tiger fishing by houseboat.

Houseboat facilities will be en suite, but expect the cabins on many boats to be relatively small and simple.

Ocean Cruises

Through our sister company, Auriel Holidays, we can source a wide variety of ocean cruises that can tie in with tailor-made land arrangements, either before or after your cruise.

Accessible Travel

If you are a wheelchair user or have limited mobility, long-haul travel poses a unique set of challenges, but as the UK market leader in accessible safari holidays we have considerable expertise in this field. Our greatest experience is in Southern and East Africa, but we have been expanding our knowledge in recent years and we now also offer accessible holidays to India, Sri Lanka and Latin America.

Whether you are simply unsure about travelling without assistance, walk with sticks or use a wheelchair permanently, we can design a holiday appropriate to your needs. We know which hotels and lodges are accessible (i.e. ramps, roll-in showers and grab rails) and which are not, and your private guide can travel with a shower chair if needed. However if you use a power chair, we will need to get the approval of the airline before we can confirm your holiday.

In South Africa, Zimbabwe, Kenya, Tanzania and Namibia we have access to a small number of accessible vehicles, with ramps for wheelchairs. If you have upper body strength and can transfer into a regular vehicle, you will have more destination choices.

In India we also have a few accessible vehicles on the famous Golden Triangle route. In Latin America accessible vehicles are found mostly in the larger cities, but if you use a manual wheelchair we can take you to places such as Machu Picchu and the Galapagos Islands.

The accessible section of our website showcases the many destinations we offer, but as you will have many questions please call us to discuss your specific needs or visit us in person and we will be happy to go through all the details with you.

As accessible hotels, guides and vehicles are always in short supply, you should book your holiday well in advance.

Small Group Tours

We offer a range of sociable small group tours in many of our key destinations, if you don't want to travel independently or self drive.

Southern Africa

South Africa offers a range of small group tours, travelling from beautiful Cape Town along the scenic Garden Route to Port Elizabeth. Afterwards you can add on a Big Five safari in the Eastern Cape. Alternatively, you can combine the wildlife of the famous Kruger National Park with Eswatini (Swaziland), Zululand and the beaches of Durban.

Namibia tours take in this country's dramatic landscapes, from the Fish River Canyon to Etosha, with longer tours travelling through the lush Caprivi to Victoria Falls.

Botswana wildlife tours are generally done under canvas, exploring the wildlife of the Okavango Delta and Chobe.

East Africa

Kenya small group tours visit the famous Masai Mara, the elephants of Samburu and Amboseli in the foothills of Mount Kilimanjaro, with shorter tours from Mombasa.

Tanzania tours explore the northern circuit of Tarangire, Ngorongoro Crater and the vast open plains of the wildlife-rich Serengeti.

Uganda tours focus on chimp and gorilla trekking. Ethiopia tours explore its ancient history.

Latin America

Peru tours visit Cusco and the stunning Inca citadel at Machu Picchu, with an extension to Lake Titicaca and the salt flats of Bolivia. Alternatively, you can combine Peru with Ecuador and the fascinating Galapagos Islands.

Brazil tours combines vibrant Rio de Janeiro with the thundering Iguassu Falls, whilst tours of Argentina and Chile focus on their capital cities and the dramatic landscapes of spectacular Patagonia.

Mexico small group tours explore their pyramids and the spectacular Mayan ruins of the Yucatan, before relaxing on the warm Mayan Riviera.
